

BURTON INAUGURATES HOOVER'S CAMPAIGN

Friends of Secretary Voice
Satisfaction with Ohioan's
Talk

Cleveland, March 23—Friends of Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover today voiced their satisfaction of the manner in which Congressman Theodore E. Burton, in his speech here last night opening the Hoover presidential campaign in Ohio, refuted misrepresentations concerning Hoover.

Burton declared that "a whispering campaign has been conducted which, whenever it has become vocal, has been definitely and conclusively answered. His qualifications for the highest office in the gift of the people, and the services that he has rendered to our own country and to more than a score of the countries of the old world, have made such an impression that he stands at the forefront in claims for the support of the American people."

Burton said Hoover's career was "marked by broad sympathies and a wide comprehension, so that he obtained not only first-hand knowledge of world problems, but grappled with them with ability and humanitarian purpose. No one living has been connected with a larger number of constructive activities."

PYTHIANS INVITED TO CHURCH RITES

Lodge Members To Attend
Evangelistic Services at Central Christian

Members of local Knights of Pythias organizations have accepted an invitation to attend services at the Central Christian Church, Sunday afternoon, when Rev. J. J. Tidball of Mansfield will speak on the subject, "The Church and the Lodge."

Reverend Tidball, who is conducting evangelistic meetings at the church, is a member of the Pythian order. Invitation to attend the Sunday afternoon service was accepted last night by Marion Company No. 15, Uniform Rank, Knights of Pythias, at its weekly meeting.

MANSFIELD TO DEBATE HERE THURSDAY NIGHT

Arrangements have been completed for a debate between Harding High School and Mansfield High School here next Thursday night. At that time Mansfield's negative team will debate the local affirmative on the question of Ohio's tax system. The debate will take place at Harding High School.

Ritzzy Rosey

Ritzzy Rosey wears one of those new skull-caps with the pocket at the side for a cigarette lighter. However, not being a slave to Lady Nicotine she has substituted her large flat lipstick for the lighter, which took the place of the usual hat ornament. Penelope has gone in for "coiffure hats" with feathers as well as felt curls.

ARRANGE FOR PLAY

Harry Partridge Named Stage Manager by Ninth Grade

Harry Partridge has been appointed stage manager for the play, "Penrod" to be presented by the ninth grade class of Central Junior High School next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday in the school auditorium. Fred Morehart was appointed business manager, Richard Crissinger, property manager, Eugene McClelland, electrician, and Glenn Dunfee, stage decorator.

Stage setting and scenery for the play, being directed by Miss Isabelle Stump, a teacher, is being designed and built by the ninth grade manual training class instructed by E. J. Beer. Members of the Central Junior High School Orchestra, directed by Howard M. Temple, music supervisor, will furnish music.

Nearly all adult tickets have been sold and student tickets for a Wednesday matinee are to go on sale Monday.

ADDRESSES PUPILS

Rev. S. S. Hardy Speaks Before Junior High Students

Rev. S. S. Hardy, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, addressed students of Central Junior High School in chapel Wednesday morning on the subject, "What Education Is." Miss Mary Ann Curtis played a piano solo, "Scotch Poem" and Miss Helen Cross a piano number, "Heather Bells."

A copy of Galusha's "Blue Boy" was presented to the school by the Parent-Teacher Council in appreciation of their aid in making the Parent-Teacher Association district convention held at that school recently, a success. A letter from Mrs. E. J. Morgan, president of the council, which accompanied the picture, was read and also a letter from Jesse H. Mason, school superintendent, congratulating the teachers, student body and building janitors on their splendid cooperation during the convention.

JUNIOR C. C. ISSUES FOUR-PAGE FOLDER

Pamphlet Explains Aims and Principles of Recently Organized Group

A four-page folder with the slogan, "Know Your City," appearing prominently on the first page, has just been issued by Marion's recently organized Junior Chamber of Commerce explaining the aims and principles of the organization.

Membership, the folder shows, is limited to citizens of Marion between the ages of 18 and 25 years.

Projects listed in the inaugural program of the Junior Chamber are given as follows:

The establishment of an airport for the city of Marion.

Collection of data regarding the value of the tax dollar in Marion as compared with cities of like size and potential wealth.

Collection of data on various kinds of movements and their costs.

Possible establishment of a better business bureau.

Committees are now actively engaged in working on these and other projects, it is reported in the folder.

This printed outline of the objects of the organization is to be used in connection with a campaign for enrollment of new members, now in progress.

Two paragraphs read as follows:

"The Junior Chamber of Commerce is purely a civic organization made up of Marion's young men, with the purpose in view of doing all in their power to acquaint themselves with the civic affairs of the city and of promoting any projects that are of value to the citizenry at large without regard to personal gain in any form.

"We owe no allegiance to any other organization in town, nor are we controlled by any group of men. We hope to stand alone, eventually showing that the young men of Marion are in a measure capable of taking an active part in the vital affairs of their city. It is our aim to co-operate with any other civic organization on any project in which we are mutually interested."

HARDING DEBATORS WILL MEET GALION

Arrangements Completed for Contest Here Tonight at Junior High School

Final arrangements have been made for Harding High School's debate with Galion High School at 8 o'clock tonight at Central Junior High School auditorium. At that time Harding's negative team will meet Galion's affirmative in a debate on Ohio's tax system. Harding's affirmative will meet Delaware's negative at Delaware, and Delaware's affirmative will meet Galion's negative at Galion the same night.

The program will also include numbers by a group from the Harding High School Band. After the debate, to be judged by three members of the debate team of Ohio Wesleyan University, Delaware, members of the Kappa Kappa Club, senior girls' gymnasium group of Harding, will entertain the debaters, faculty and judges at a party in the gym at Harding High School.

Daily Proverb—"If you pity rogues you are no great friend of honest men."

Greece is reported to want a senate. Great heavens! Why can not people realize when they are well off?

Washington reports the possibility that the corporation and income taxes for 1928 may run $100,000,000 over estimates. What's the explanation? Are we growing honest?

Anyway, the fact that a Chicago man is seeking an injunction to restrain his mother-in-law from visiting him goes to show that he isn't one of those male bips who "marry on."

Two United States senators and forty representatives enjoyed the novelty of going up into the air with Lindbergh, a day or two ago. The novel phase of the experience was going up into the air—with Lindbergh.

H. H. Hardy is quoted as saying that "an optimist is one who sees in every difficulty an opportunity." That may be his definition of an optimist, but it comes pretty close to our definition of an ambulance chaser.

Possibly Senator Couzens figures that if he makes enough noise about what he alleges are the offenses of Secretary Mellon, the country may overlook that little matter of $10,000,000 which he didn't pay by way of an income tax.

Director General Francis I. Jones, of the United States employment service, says that the "unemployment" situation is very largely exaggerated. Naturally, it always is, in presidential years, by the fellows who are out and want to get in.

Charles A. Levine, who made the most remarkable first solo flight in the history of aviation and holds the record for making a nose dive of 15,000 feet, is to get a pilot's license. Charles, it is evident, has lived to learn.

The manner in which President Coolidge said "No" to that call from Wyoming might be taken to indicate that he is about ready to stick the dog into the next patriot who comes around with that "Draft Coolidge" stuff.

An exchange remarks that "one of the embarrassing moments of life is when a man you have come dashing along just as you are paying cash for your gasoline." There is always the good old law of compensation busy at work. We true aristocrats may be hard pressed in the preservation of our rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, but here we have one embarrassment we are spared.

A man has been indicted in New York for forging the name of William Randolph Hearst to a check for $15,000 and later passing it. We would consider it something of a compliment if anybody could realize $15,000 on a check drawn in our name.

Twenty-two of the twenty-five nations represented on the preliminary committee for a League of Nations disarmament congress are already lined up against the Soviet Russian plan for complete disarmament. In a word, they refuse to enter into a disarmament agreement which they know Russia would enter into, but wouldn't keep.

Mrs. Whiffon, the "Grand Old Woman of the Stage," says that the way to keep living is to keep working. If she's right about it, we can't see what's going to keep us hard-working spreaders of joy and sunshine in paragraphs from living forever.

"Radical Ship Appears Leaking in Wisconsin," reads a headline over a story from Milwaukee regarding to troubles of the rattle in his father's shoes. By the way it has been throwing teeth out of its cage, we assumed that the La Follette structure up there was a machine into which somebody had thrown a money wrench.

The Chicago board of education has finally found William McAndrew guilty of insubordination and conduct unbecoming his office and removed him from the superintendency of the schools up there. We had a suspicion all along that the board could be depended upon to obey orders.

Perhaps in no better way could our good fortune in possessing a wide domain be brought home to us than that offered by a Brussels cable, which states that Belgium, which has the greatest population to the square mile of any European land, is seriously considering compulsory cremation, looking to conservation of land.

A New Yorker has been arrested over in Cherbourg for impersonating a United States official and collecting $1,000 by charging tourists about to embark for this country $50 each as an "entrance fee." A man capable of pulling off anything as crude as that shouldn't have hesitated about remaining at home and selling gold mine and wildcat oil stocks.

Suspicion and Facts.

The accredited investigator of the United States senate public lands committee, sent to Marion on the announced suspicion that some trace of the so-called Continental Trading company Liberty bonds might be found in the estates of Mr. and Mrs. Harding, has come and gone. As those who knew the two anticipated, he departed without having found the slightest trace of the missing securities.

The explanation of his failure is easy. Neither Mr. nor Mrs. Harding ever had any of the securities so zealously sought by the senate committee.

At the time of her death Mrs. Harding had $65,300 in Liberty bonds and Mr. Harding left $182,750 in such securities, but only two of all the Liberty bonds in the two estates were of the first issue and they were for $500 each, whereas all the so-called Continental bonds were of that issue, but of $1,000 denomination.

Mr. Harding came into possession of $97,500 of the $182,750 Liberty bonds left by him as his part of the $120,000 in bonds owned by the Marion Star which, by the agreement of the parties thereto, were not included in the sale of the Star. Other bonds to the value of $50,000 were bought by him with the down payment made by the purchasers of his newspaper and the remaining bonds of the face value of $35,250 were purchased by him from time to time as he had the means with which to acquire them.

The investigation made by the representative of the senate committee came close upon the heels of a statement made by its chairman, Senator Gerald P. Nye, of North Dakota, announcing that his committee proposed to look into the estate of the late President Harding in which he expressed what he said was his personal belief that "there would be a lack of satisfaction if this committee submits a report to the senate without determining whether there were any Continental bonds" involved in Mr. Harding's estate.

It is hard for us to believe that this was the impelling motive of the committee. Certainly it could not have been that of the member, or members, of the senate committee who was, or were, so desirous of involving the name of the dead president in the matter, that the ordinary course of procedure followed in such investigations was abandoned and the alleged suspicion was voiced first and the matter of investigating it taken up later, and this, too, despite Senator Nye's statement that he did not expect to find and had no reason for expecting to find as a result of the investigation of the two estates any of the bonds sought.

The immediate result was that the senator's announcement, that the two estates would be investigated on "suspicion," was given first page position under glaring headlines, and in many cases under streamers, in practically every daily paper in the country, while, we regret to say, the fact that the suspicion was utterly without foundation, was run by practically all the papers which came to us under small heads and "buried" in inside pages, from which we glean the relative value a sensational press places upon suspicions and facts.

But it may be well that the investigation has been made, for it is time that the vilification of the late President Harding should cease. We do not recall that there has ever been a man in the history of our nation who has attained to high position who has been so persistently libeled, slandered and defamed as the late president has been since his death, and on charges too, as utterly baseless as the suspicion published by Senator Gerald Nye has proved.

But even though the result may have worked for good in the present case, the fact remains that no man's reputation is safe against assault by members of our legislative bodies.

When, in framing our basic law, immunity for any utterance they might make in pursuance of their duties was conferred upon our legislators, it is hardly possible that the framers ever imagined that the time would come when those elevated to positions then held in high honor would take advantage of this immunity and resort to the assassination of the reputations of the living, much less to unwarranted assaults upon the good name of the dead. The practice, of late, has become so pronounced that the situation cries out for correction. Our lawmakers should be stripped of such immunity. If the common decencies of life are not to be observed in our legislative halls from inclination, the protection afforded by the law to those who betray them should be swept away that they, like those for whom they make the laws, may be made amenable to the law.

An exchange tells us that there are 3,000 bootleggers in Washington, which goes to confirm our understanding that its population is largely of the floating variety.

Doris McDonald laughed and joked when informed that her death sentence had been commuted to life imprisonment and that she would not be hanged with her paramour. "Well I know all along I wasn't going to hang," she said. "What do you think of this manœuvre?" When he confessed that he killed the Montreal taxi driver, did her paramour tell the truth?

Vagrant Verse.

A SENSITIVE NATURE.

Don't conclude my love is waning! Why, she's just as sweet today

As she was the day we wedded, dodged the rice and drove away!

No, I've nothing worth complaining all these years we've wandered through.

But I hate to have her tell me what I used to be and do!

How I hate to have her tell me how I used to be and look,

And lying out that old time photo with my right hand on a book!

Why, my gentle nature sizzles and I fairly long to die

When she cites my paper collar and my plaid, old-fashioned tie.

Don't I beg, misunderstand me, I'm the happiest of men—

And to me she's just as worthy and as treasure-able as then—

I'm sure few men are favored as the Fates have favored me.

But I hate to be reminded of the clump I used to be!

—John D. Wells.

STILL AT IT.

Beauty Boiled Out.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

It is a marvel to me that sensible women are so imposed upon and so deluded as they are in the matter of being made "beautiful" by surgery or other radical measures. Wondering if they really are played upon, I talked with a friend of mine, a famous "beauty expert."

I asked her about the fads and fancies of this business. I got from her, too, much evidence of what happens to women who use the strenuous methods of fat reduction.

"This good woman told me with tears in her eyes about the damaging effects of these treatments. She recalled case after case of sagging jaws, flaccid necks, baggy eyelids, and shapeless arms encased in folds of redundant skin."

You see the skin covering is not elastic enough to tighten up over the thinning tissues. As the underlying fat disappears, the skin loses its filling and support. The eight or ten inches of skin enclosing the arm will be there just the same after the plumpness has decreased to such an extent that two of three inches less skin would be enough.

After youth has passed, it is unreasonable to expect that reduction in the fat deposits will be followed by a corresponding contraction in the skin surface. The loose, flabby, fluted, pleated skin will remain to tell the world its possessor at one time was fat.

After the agony of the starvation diet and wicked over-exercise, there yet remains the necessity for a "lifting operation," or an excision of the surplus skin. You have only started on the road to trouble and suffering when you enter the electric light cabinet.

Profuse sweating does not take off fat. You may get into the cabinet and stay there for some time. Needless to say a shower of perspiration escapes from the skin and tissues. Perhaps a couple of pounds of water may be extracted from the body. The scales show less weight and everybody is happy! How foolish! The lessened weight is due merely to the extracted water.

The heart is unreasonably taxed and the kidneys called upon to work under unfavorable conditions. The nervous system has suffered by this procedure. There are women who sleep in rubber girdles. The poisons of the body are carried out in the perspiration and reabsorbed because they are retained under the rubber. So real harm is done.

It is only honest sweat that will take off fat. Exercise where the muscles are actually used breaks down the fat and burns it up in the furnace of the body. This sort of exercise produces what I call "honest sweat." That is a sure solvent of fat, but the cabinet and giraffe sweat takes away nothing but water.—Copyright, 1928, Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Editorial Opinion.

SO "TRADER HORN" CAME.

"Trader Horn" has arrived in New York to be lionized in so-called literary circles, fêted, and not only interviewed, for that is not enough nowadays, but to talk to laudable audiences over the radio. A dependent in part on public charity in a town of the South African Union, he peddled for spending money, griddles and other utensils he fashioned himself from wire and so fell in with a benefactor, who learned of his adventures as a trader on African rivers beginning only a few years after the abolition of slavery in the United States. He had a story to tell and though the book he was persuaded to write begins nowhere and ends nowhere, its light on a rather obscure period in Central Africa and its remarkable diction made it a best seller at a time of almost unprecedented fatness in literary output. The ex-griddler's royalties are now said to amount to $1,000 a month.

It is this book which, confirming secret suspicions long held, boldly disparages Henry M. Stanley as the discoverer of a Livingstone who never was lost and which also declares that the cannibal tribes of Africa are the most perfect physically and have the highest, most exacting moral code of all backward races. What happens among the dwellers along crocodile-infested tropical rivers when grandpa and grandpa get too old to be of much use also forms an interesting passage in the book.

Perhaps "Trader Horn," whose real name is Smith, thought the present good time to visit this country because the Smith family is much in the public eye. However, he is to have a new book out in a few weeks.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

150 BILLION MILES A YEAR.

How would you like to be assigned the task of driving a motor vehicle around the world 61,000,000 times? Driving constantly at an average speed of thirty miles per hour it would take you 371,000 years. But that is exactly what you would be forced to do could you undertake to duplicate the travel of motorists of the United States during 1927.

These interesting figures were compiled by the American Road Builders' association following the association's report of gasoline consumption during 1927. Motorists consumed 11,563,490,000 gallons of gasoline, which at an average of thirteen miles to the gallon would mean a total traveled distance of more than 150,000,000,000 miles.

The average consumption per motor vehicle during 1927 was 550 gallons, and the average distance traveled estimated at 7,150 miles on the ultraconservative basis of thirteen miles to the gallon.

The American Road Builders' association accredits much of the increased motor travel to the existence of good roads. "These roads," it is claimed, "save from three to four cents for every mile traveled. If all the roads of the United States were improved to a degree proportionate to the amount of traffic they carry, the annual saving in transportation costs would exceed $4,000,000,000."

The United States now has 696,900 miles of improved highways, according to the American Road Builders' association. There is a great demand for additional improved highways in the secondary system.—Rockford Register-Gazette.

VERILY, WHAT NEXT?

Only a few years ago John J. Baird was so poor that he couldn't buy working tools. Now he is due for a place with the immortals and there are few things which he wants and can not have.

Every one has noticed that the red colors of a sunset last longest. The infra-red rays, just at the borderland of human sight, John Baird went to work upon the red ray, just above the upper end of the spectrum. First he produced television, with which the reader is fairly familiar. Next television, by which an object can be seen in a completely dark room, upon a screen in an adjoining room. Latest, the invisible ray searchlight. It sweeps across the sky, piercing the densest fog, unseen; but an apparatus called an "electric eye" catches, upon a screen, all that comes in the ray's path.

What work for the human imagination has not John Baird provided? Verily, Aladdin's lamp was a mere candle.—Columbus Citizen.

Dinner Stories.

In an examination, to bring out the answer "S O S," a candidate was asked, "What three letters of the alphabet are used when urgent help is required?"

"The 'I O U,' I should say, sir," replied the candidate.

Judge—"Why did you hit the dry goods clerk, madam?"

Mrs. Knock—"Well, you honor, I asked her to show me something suitable in neckwear for my self and she looked at my neck and then handed me a washrag!"

"Does your son Josh ever come back to visit you since he got in the movies at Hollywood?"

"Every summer," answered Grandma Tuttle, proudly, "every summer of the three years he's been gone."

"And did he bring his wife with him?"

"Each time," she answered. "And they was three as purty girls as you ever laid eyes on."

Parlor Science.

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

"Here is something I call parlor astronomy. I stirred up some dust and began watching it play around in the sunlight. The particles paid no attention to the gravitation of the earth as they traveled up and down in their curved paths. I noticed that these particles would not light on a shiny surface, but on a shaded or dark surface. There were millions floating around and none that I noticed collided."

"I saw too particles come rather close, and I suppose by the slight gravitation of the particles they began to revolve around one another while journeying along. The larger particle had a small orbit while that of the smaller particle was rather large. I also noticed that when two were approaching each other the smaller was somewhat dragged to one side, while the larger particle had a small orbit, and in several cases the smaller began to follow the larger. Were these things due to gravitation?—Byron Thorwell Darling, Chicago."

Although it was not astronomical phenomena that you were watching yet your "parlor astronomy," which might better be called parlor physics, was certainly very interesting. The motions of the revolving particles were not, as you suppose them to have been, due to their gravitational attraction for one another, but mainly to eddies and currents of air carrying the floating particles about. The internal motions of a body of air, even when it is enclosed in a room, are incessant and often wonderful, though invisible except through their effects. Particles of dust are swept about in complicated gyratory paths, and two or more of them often behave, as you saw some do, as if they were double stars revolving around their common centers of gravity.

Electricity no doubt plays some part in such phenomena, particles having similar charges repelling one another, while attraction takes the place of repulsion between particles oppositely charged.

What you say of the particles lighting on dark, but not on shining surfaces, is suggestive of the effects of the pressure of light. The light waves from bright surfaces would at least have a tendency to repel exceedingly minute floating particles, which though too small to be directly visible, would be surrounded by minute haloes like stars, revealing their presence. In this case, too, differences of electric potential would be effective.

The marvelous effects produced by air eddies are shown more conspicuously in snow storms. I have often watched the flakes in such storms behaving in the neighborhood of obstructions such as trees or the walls of houses, almost as if they were animated with wills and purposes of their own, or impressed upon them by their leaders. All the maneuvers of squadrons of cavalry in battle are imitated with astonishing fidelity—but with variations impossible in two-dimensional space—by the wind-driven white riders of the snow.

Your idea that the revolving dust particles are moved by their mutual gravitation shows an exaggerated notion of the force of gravitation when manifested by small masses of matter. It may seem astonishing to many to be told that gravitation, which holds planets in leash of the sun, and the moon to the earth, which never loses its grip upon comets that travel thousands of miles into the depths of space, and which, in fact, evidently extends its empire as far as matter exists, is yet so slight a force that it is practically inseparable between the bodies with which we have to do in every day life. Immense masses are needed in order to multiply gravitation up to an appreciable amount.

The letter "G" represents in physical calculations what is called the constant of gravitation. This stands on the same ground as the velocity of light, as one of the absolute constants of nature. No matter where you might be in the universe you would, it is assumed, find light always traveling at the rate of 186,000 miles per second and gravitation always exerting a force equal to about one fifteen millionth of a dyne between two masses of matter weighing one gram each and separated by a distance of one centimeter. Now, a dyne is about equal to the weight of one milligram. Think, then, how infinitely small is one fifteen millionth of a milligram!—Copyright, 1928, International Feature Service, Inc.

For a Brighter London.

BY O. O. MINTYRE.

London, March 23.—The "Brighter London" movement peeps through the gloom here and there. Regent street—the Fifth Avenue—seems entirely made over in the American fashion with a spanking newness. What a wish for in London is not so much brighter, but that people would thaw out and be themselves. It would be a lovely spot for a "Smile" week.

Everywhere you sense the accentuated thing of those who have the "advantage." The condescending drawl soon begins to wear on the nerves and "when you hear ex-patriated Americans simulating this odious kid-gloved snobbishness it is, well, putting it on a bit thick."

This morning I watched the early procession over London bridge—a constant stream of workers going to their tasks and chattering in Cockney dialect that is almost alien. An outstanding impression was the need of dentistry among them. Everybody seemed to have a few front teeth missing or broken off.

London has thousands of those beefy, grating gentlemen whose cheeks have a reddish-glow. They dress with a shabby gentility often wearing spats below patched trousers. They have over-Niagara mustaches, clear their throats with a hearty gargle and blow their noses lustily in thumb-stick fashion.

They remind you somehow of those ruddy-cheeked pictures of John Bull in whisky ads. To all appearances they have no particular calling and certainly no incomes, but they get along jolly well in their blustery way and add, I presume, a touch to the gaiety of nations.

The most appealing thing about the British to me is their love of outdoors and zest for sport. They take avid interest in every game played in the open. London has 114 publications devoted chiefly to sports and all have a surprising circulation.

The Times in listing arrivals at hotels and their occupations lists me as "a leader-writer of the American press." Sounds well, but what in the world is it?

And in a shop a clerk lapsing playful for the second—and it was just a second—apologized with: "I was giving your leg a jolly pull." He meant, I found out afterward, he was jolking.

The Kit Kat club and the Florida are the most popular night resorts. But our revenue men are no more zealous than city authorities here against closing hours. After 12:30 a night even glasses are removed from tables and a drink is impossible to secure. The orchestras play this season's hits from New York shows and dance steps differ little from those on Broadway. The clubs, as in Paris, are supported chiefly by loose spending Americans.

The discontented of London are still permitted to mount platforms at an entrance to Hyde park and "blow off steam." Policemen are about, but only interfere in case of incipient riots and such. The speaker pays so much for his platform and he can say anything he chooses so long as he does not indulge in profanity. He can harangue the crown, sneer at the Prince of Wales and even suggest a march on Buckingham palace. Free speech is unbridled. The ruling class has the good sense to know it is all talk and harmless.

London's poverty often hides in the alley like news back of the finest mansions. Originally stable, they are now hovels of human habitation as dank and smelly as the causeways of Limehouse.

London streets seem more romantically named than those in most cities. Some of them seem fairly to leap at you. Today, for instance, I passed through Threadneedle, Houndsditch, Cockspur, Oxford Circus, Cheese corners, Boar's Head lane, Old New street, Mustard alley, Blood road and Singapore news.

Then there is Rotten row, where all the swells canter on horseback.

A friend called up America this evening and with the tricky telephone service here I wondered what he would do if the voice at the other end replied: "Wrong country." Copyright, 1928, by the McNaught Syndicate, Inc blocked a disastrous fire might result.

Another Reason

Another reason given by the fire chief for the discontinuance of the practice, is the increase in the number of calls in the city. So far this year, the chief said today, the departments have received 25 more calls than they received last year up until this time.

It was carefully pointed out by the chief, however, that the ruling does not apply to calls from surrounding towns or cities or to territory within a reasonable distance from the city. "We have always responded to calls from the surrounding villages and intend to continue doing so," the chief said, "but the calls to which I refer and the one which we will not be able to respond to, are those coming from a distance of three or four miles in the country."

Suggests Plan

The organizing of county fire departments, is being carried on in a number of the counties of the state, where firemen from nearby cities are unable to respond to country calls, the fire chief said. Where this plan is carried out, a light pumper is purchased by the county and placed at some convenient point, principally the county seat, and one man, an experienced fireman employed.

Four calls into the country received by the department yesterday it is believed hastened the announcement. Late yesterday morning calls from the Roy Brown home three and one-half miles west of the city, and from the home of John Whiteamire, east of the city and last night calls were received from the home of Lellor F. Augenstein, south of the city and a second call from the Roy Brown home west of the city, where the barn was destroyed.

D. R. CRISSINGER FARM HOME IS LOST IN FIRE

Loss Placed at $3,500, All Covered by Insurance; Some Furniture Saved

Fire starting from a defective chimney was responsible for a blaze that completely destroyed the dwelling on the D. R. Crissinger farm two miles north of Five Points on the Mud-pk yesterday with a loss on the dwelling of $3,000 and $500 on the contents, all covered by insurance.

The dwelling was occupied by the family of John Whiteamire who moved what was saved of their furniture to the V. C. Lyken farm one-half mile north of Five Points.

The fire started in the roof near the chimney. Neighbors attracted by the flames succeeded in getting a large part of the furniture out of the house before the flames reached the first floor.

The fire when discovered by two men who were burning grass in a field across the road from the Whiteamire home, had burned through the roof. Running across to the house, the men notified members of the family of the blaze and started carrying furniture from the house.

A call was sent into Central Fire Station, but because of the ruling to answer no more country calls, the firemen did not respond. A large number of neighbors, however, seeing the flames, assisted in carrying out the furniture and in preventing the spread of the flames to other buildings on the farm. Later in the day, upon the return of Mr. Whiteamire, who was al-sent during the fire, the family moved to the Lyken farm.

EFFORTS TO DRIVE OUT MELLON FAILS

Resolution Sponsored by Senator Couzens Buried on Legislative Calendar

Washington, March 23.—The effort to drive Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, out of the cabinet, because of his silence about Harry F. Sinclair's Liberty Bonds, appeared doomed to failure today.

The resolution sponsored by Senator James Couzens, Republican of Michigan, as buried on the Senate's legislative calendar in a position requiring a majority vote or unanimous consent to get it back under debate. Its defeat, whenever voted upon, as assured, according to administration leaders.

The resolution seems certain to be rejected because of a lack of support among Democrats. Some of the liberal Democrats favored it and the Republican insurgents endorsed it but conservatives on both sides of the aisle were opposed to it.

NO OTHER Spring Tonic JUST AS GOOD AS CHERI-COD

The formula of Cheri-Cod is approved, tested and recommended by your own Marion pharmacists; it is not a patent medicine, it contains the vitamins tested extract of Cod Livers with a delightful Wild Cherry flavor. Does not nauseate like the old style preparations of Cod Liver Oil. For a real builder and tonic it is superior because of the double vitamin content.

For children or adults suffering with Anemia, loss of appetite, nervousness, impaired vitality, and as a general tonic following influenza, coughs or colds, wonderful results are being obtained.

Every day Marion druggists are being informed of the great benefits derived from taking Cheri-Cod. Over twelve hundred bottles have been sold in Marion in the past three months. Start taking Cheri-Cod now and eliminate that tired, wornout feeling that usually accompanies spring. The following Marion druggists recommend Cheri-Cod.

Prospect Street M. E. Group Observes Birthday

Members of the Foreign Missionary Society, of Prospect Street M. E. Church, observed "Founders' Day" by entertaining members of other organizations of the church at a program meeting last night at the church. The day marked the forty-second anniversary of the founding of the society. More than 100 members and guests were in attendance.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. August Schrader, Mrs. Karl W. Patow, Miss Mamie Hecker and Miss Freda Wanner. Mrs. Frank W. Mayer, charter member of the organization, opened the service with devotionals and Mrs. Paul Sprang presided for the program hour which opened with a song, "The King's Highway," sung by the audience. Mrs. Fred Hecker, also a charter member, gave an interesting history of the society since its organization in 1896. The only other charter member in attendance was Mrs. C. E. Artz, of Meeker, who with Mrs. Mayer contributed brief talks on the work of the organization.

Meditations OF A Married Woman

—BY HELEN ROWLAND—

A MAN used to tell a girl that he loved her, before trying to kiss her. Now he takes the precaution to assure her that he DOESN'T love her, before "consenting" to kiss her.

In order to survive what the modern youth calls his love-making, a girl's lipstick must be kiss-proof, her emotions shock-proof, and her vanity bullet-proof.

According to a debutante, the only way a girl can get a man to "trust" her these days, is to send her father's car for him, meet him at the door and tie him to the divan.

Most of the laws that make marriage look so binding, are the "unwritten laws" that are never mentioned in the contract.

There is nothing absolute about love. What is "close" to a college boy would seem like burlesque to a polished philosopher; and what is love to a poet would seem like paranoia to a hard-boiled business man.

In every model husband, there lurks somewhere a dead Don Juan, whose wrath steals back to haunt him, with the coming of the new Spring moon.

The only thing more striking about this unromantic age, than the average man's casual, "You-may-kiss-me" attitude, is the beautiful humility with which the average girl accepts it.

The trouble with the average marriage is that it contains too many "Gimmies" and too few "Thank you's."

Distance may lead enchantment—but propriety gets the man.

Oakland Heights School Pupils Present Program

An audience composed of about 200 parents and friends of pupils of the Oakland Heights School attended the physical education demonstration put on by the children under the direction of Miss Isabel Unspicer, last night at the school building. The program will be repeated tonight, beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

The program last night was the first to be staged by the children who have taken the work in physical education for the first time this year. Children from the first to the fifth grade have been in classes only part time while pupils from the fifth to the seventh grades have taken regular periods throughout the school year. The work of the children, both individually and in the groups was excellently presented throughout and afforded an evening of interesting entertainment.

Open Program

Pupils of the fifth grade opened the program with a reading exercise and pupils of the first grade demonstrated a game. An exercise by children of the second grade and a song by the first grade children were followed by an exercise, "Our Lesson," demonstrated by the children of the third grade. Gymnasts in a fancy drill were interpreted by the pupils of the fifth grade and boys from the third and fourth grades stepped the "Sailor's Hornpipe."

Girls of the sixth grade were presented in a waltz drill and the seventh grade boys put on a demonstration of the "Dumbbell Drill." An entertaining feature of the program was the "Tin Pan Parade" put on by the pupils of the fourth grade with girls of the seventh grade interpreting the music. The program concluded with an Indian Club drill given by the girls of the seventh grade and an exercise, "Tin Soldiers," presented by boys of the sixth grade.

A colorful note was added in the presentation of the exercises by the costumes worn by the children and the decorations of toy balloons and crepe paper streamers which formed a canopy over the temporary stage arranged in the center of the gymnasium floor. Music for the program was furnished by the pupils.

ARRANGE FOR BENEFIT

Arrangements were made for a benefit card party next Thursday night at L. O. O. M. Hall, E. Church-st, and for an entertainment in two weeks at the hall at the meeting of Women of Moosehart Legion there last night. The next regular meeting will be held April 5.

Shopping certainly is a real pleasure in Marion—especially if you can do it on a Spring day as delightful as today—with all the shops arrayed for Easter. A day like this is just a natural invitation to get all dressed up—and in the stores.

You know how popular these Permo silks are this year? Before spring much farther along you'll be seeing them—if you haven't already. I found the cutest one I've ever seen today—a child's crepe with a prett sign of bright garden flowers and a black silk belt with a silver buckle that just set it off right. It's a Uhler-Phillips—$3.00—the price is just $2.00—although they have some at $16.50, too.

Of course you'll want a new wig for Easter—how doesn't? And the time it might as well be a permanent. The best place I've seen is the Spencer Beauty Shop in the Harding Hotel. They use the Eugene system—no hot rollers and they last all summer—and the finished product certainly is a model of loveliness.

I stopped at Turlo's for lunch today, and tried some of their famous Thousand Island Dressing. If you haven't tasted that you still have a thrill coming to you. Salads never seemed so good before. They put a up in neat little jars, too, so you can serve it at home—fifty cents for the smaller size, and a dollar for a large one.

A corsage of sweet peas seems just made to harmonize with the new clothes you'll be wearing on Easter—maybe before. There are lovely ones at Blake's Florists store on West Center Street—and the most beautiful mums and lilies you ever saw. They have potted plants, too, all in a gorgeous bloom, and all ready for the Easter showing at church or at home. Just telephone 5169 if you want some delivered.

Naturally after you're all arrayed in Spring clothes you'll want a new photograph—Maybe a unique pose against a novel background that really gives distinction to a picture? Drop in at the Master Studio and see the Spanish setting—a corner and a doorway with a little statuette that adds a luxurious new touch to a photo.

And while you're downtown don't fail to hear the newest music. Red Morgan singing "Can't Help Love Dat Man"—you remember the Sho Boat song?—is out today on a Victor record. Paul Whitehead playing "Sunshine" is another bit that comes of this morning. They have them at Ackerman's—the store where the Victor dog sits in the doorway—and like the Duncan Sisters' "Black Blue Blues."

The Oakland Grill is a charming place to while away an idle hour of spring afternoon—coolly comfortable after a long round of busy shopping and their sodas and luncheons are delicious. Always plenty of space to sit—and you'll meet any number of friends out there, too, in the course of half an hour.

And speaking of resting—I saw a most perfect bedroom suite this afternoon. Walnut, you know, with one of those fancy new French vanity tables that are all the rage in the big cities. Really, it's a beautiful suite, and any bride who doesn't sit it is just missing something. It's at Lennou's and the price is only $1100.

Are you having any trouble keeping a skin they all would love to touch this season? March is really one of the hardest months—especially for those whose faces chap easily. Over at Stump & Sams

Really, there are so many things to see, downtown, it's hard to stop you about them. But I'll be back Thursday, spying out the new things in Marion shops—so call on just where to look for everything new and just where the week's values are.

But for this week—Sincerely,
Jeanne Ardrey

SEE CHALLENGE TO BRITAIN IN BILL

Say It Is Sinister Move To Tempt Best Brains To Settle in U. S.

London, March 23.—Harsh British critics of United States policies pretend to see in the new Immigration Bill which has the support of Secretary of Labor James J. Davis a direct challenge to the British policy of promoting immigration within the Empire.

America's efforts to limit immigration to persons of more than average intelligence are interpreted as a sinister move to tempt the best brains of Britain to settle in the United States rather than in Canada, Australia or South Africa.

Call It Inspired
Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express, ever critical of American motives, admits that the Watson Bill is probably inspired by "a genuinely humanitarian desire to improve the immigration laws and to do away with the scandals and brutalities involved in the forced separation of men from their families."

"In the cross currents of American politics," says a Daily Express leader, "sentiment and a decent respect for the opinions of mankind are never altogether absent. But, as in this case, they are usually allied at the same time with a shrewd self-interest."

"Washington realizes that the future of America depends on her building up among her people strong reserves of British, Irish and German stock. They are the immigrants who create, who are law abiding, who bring strength and stability to the commonwealth."

"That is why a preferential immigration tariff is to be instituted to welcome and encourage them. America wants and is bidding for the best of our stock, the men of brains and ingenuity and skilled industrial aptitudes, to supply her own human deficiencies."

Seen as Challenge

"This is a direct challenge to the whole movement for promoting immigration within the Empire. Every family that leaves Britain for a non-British country is a definite loss to the Empire."

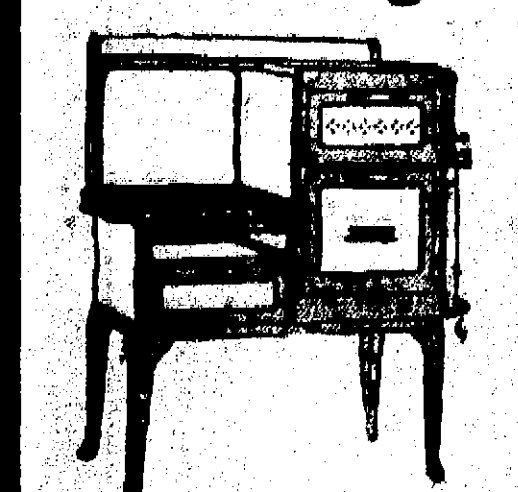

Incidentally the Daily Express blames Premier Baldwin and Minister of Colonies Amery, both recently returned from trips to Canada, for not devising effective means for filling the empty spaces of Canada and the Empire from the surplus population of this island.

At the present rate of production, the potato deposits of Alsace are estimated to contain enough salts to last from seven to eight centuries.

The latest official figures give nearly 75,000 registered unemployed in Denmark.

OCEAN MONSTER TRANS PORTS TRAINS IN BALTIC

HERE is the modern sea monster. Like the voracious terrors of old, this one has a most gigantic maw and swallows its prey whole.

However, our modern creation is a fact and fills an urgent need instead of being a horror to all good sailors.

This latest invention of German engineers is a huge railroad ferry.

The effect is very weird and unusual in the extreme. When trains are put aboard the S. S. "Schwerin" an immense mouth on her bow opens like a great fish.

After twenty passenger cars and forty freight cars are inside, the mouth closes and they are safe from sliding off into the Baltic Sea. Another they are inside and stay there no matter what happens.

The "Schwerin" will provide the last link in the connecting by rail between Berlin and Copenhagen via Warnemunde. Even though it looks like a fairy tale dream, you probably have heard of less practical things.

ITINERANT PEDDLER TAKES LIFE IN BARN

Walton Beard, 68, Hango Self on Willard Hamilton Farm Near Byhalia

Walton Beard, 68, an itinerant peddler known to hundreds of residents in this section of Ohio, was found dead about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon in a barn at the farm of Willard Hamilton, a short distance east of Byhalia. He had ended his life by hanging, his body being found suspended from a rope attached to one of the rafters.

The body was discovered by an 11-year-old son of Mr. Hamilton. Despondency resulting from ill health is given as the cause of the suicide.

Although Beard made his home during recent years with a daughter in Toledo, he had been staying recently at the Hamilton residence, Mrs. Hamilton being his niece.

Beard spent the earlier years of his life near Byhalia, but for a long time had traveled about the country peddling merchandise. He was one of the old school of itinerant salesmen, using a horse and buggy as his means of conveyance.

He was the father of a family of 10 children. Mrs. John Houseworth of Prospect is a daughter.

Funeral arrangements have not been made, but it is expected that burial will be made at Byhalia.

THREE ESCAPE WHEN TWO CARS COLLIDE

E. F. Glassmeyer and Two Companions in Crash South of Bucyrus

Two automobiles were last night crashed and three persons escaped injury when a Buick coupe driven by E. F. Glassmeyer crashed into a Ford touring car parked at the side of the Marion Bucyrus road about a mile south of Bucyrus last night.

The Glassmeyer car skidded into the ditch after striking the Ford, which according to reports, was parked along the road without lights. The name of the owner of the Ford could not be learned.

The accident happened while Glassmeyer, with two passengers, was on his way from Bucyrus to Marion, about 1:30 o'clock last night. His machine partly wrecked, was towed to Marion by the Albert Brothers wrecking car and taken to their garage for repairs. The Ford was not badly damaged.

Glassmeyer's address is given as the Oakwood Club, Marion, R. F. D. 7.

Some people have all the luck. Rose Dally, one of the two "Dolly Shivers" of stage fame, broke the bank at Monte Carlo the other day. She won $20,000 in less than two hours. Her father had to find a bag in which to stack the piles of bank notes his daughter had won.

People who forget their duties seem to get along somehow.

Byrd to Address Radio

SOUTH SEA ISLANDERS BOOKED

Audience on Saturday

Addresses by Maj. Gen. Amos A. Byrd, transatlantic flier and the first to fly over the North Pole, will be broadcast at 9 o'clock Saturday night by 104 stations of the radio network.

Best For Weak Back

Are you suffering from the misery of a lame, aching back? You can get most instant relief by putting on a Johnson's Red Cross Kidney Plaster. It warms, soothes and supports the weak back, and gently massages the muscles with every movement of the body, thus helping to restore proper circulation and normal strength. Johnson's Red Cross Kidney Plaster brings amazingly quick results because the medication penetrates straight through the skin to the affected parts—pain, stiffness, soreness, leaves, power returns, most immediately. And you get lasting relief, too, for the medication is continually absorbed as long as the plaster remains on the body. Try a Red Cross Kidney Plaster tonight and prove how quickly it drives away the misery of a weak back.

Just go to any drug store and ask for Johnson's, the big Red Cross Kidney Plaster with the red flannel back.

The South Sea Islanders will broadcast another program from WEAF at 7 o'clock Saturday night.

The overture to "Roméo and Juliet" will open the program of the New York Symphony orchestra which will be broadcast from blue network stations at 8 o'clock Saturday night.

SOVIET PLANS WELCOME FOR CHARLES A. LEVINE

Moscow—Charles A. Levine will be welcome in Soviet Russia at any time he chooses to fly to Moscow from New York and will be rendered every possible assistance, Osoaviakhin, the society for aerial and chemical defense, announces it wrote to the millionaire flier in response to a request about atmospheric and landing conditions.

The society's experts said they recommended June or August for the flight into Russia. There are ample facilities for continuing the journey through Siberia with landing fields at intervals of about 400 miles.

The Soviet press is manifesting greater interest in the proposed flight to Moscow than in Col. Lindbergh's lone hop across the Atlantic. Though nothing definite has been decided, stories about the possible longest non-stop flight on record are appearing daily.

Aeroplane oil is now being made from locusts, and it is said that this oil will remain liquid at a lower temperature than any other. It is thus specially useful for planes flying at a great height.

EXAMINATION DAY! SCREEN STAR TEST NOSES

A nose may be all right from a front view, but—if you want to give it the acid test for beauty, take it on the profile. At least that is what Moguls of the Screen have found in recent Hollywood tests. A side view of the proboscis often destroys beauty no matter how perfect the other features may be. For instance, cast your eyes over this cluster of screen stars. Lona Collier, upper left, ranks A-1. Madge Bellamy, center, takes honors with a "western American" nose. Lola Moran, upper right, with the slight almost imperceptible curve in her frontal feature has strong character and will power, according to the test, while Janet Gaynor, insert, easily makes the grade.

Streets of Marion

WITH THE STAR STAFF

EVEN spring has its drawbacks.

Among them is that uncertainty of weather conditions which almost invariably results in a general spread of flu, in grippes and their closely allied ailments, the "bad cold."

Marion's population has had its full share of this assortment of spring and pre-spring complaints this year. Local doctors during the last few weeks have been on the jump night and day attending to the needs of aching, wheezing and watery-eyed citizens suffering from the season's offerings in bodily afflictions.

As usual, health authorities are sending out warnings against the common tendency to regard the ordinary cold as a trifling ailment. And, as usual, the average citizen is not paying much attention to the warnings.

Yet it is a well-known fact, established by authentic records, that colds are communicated from one person to another by germs and that an epidemic is easily started unless proper care is exercised.

Medical and health authorities of the present day do not give much of any credence to the ancient belief that exposure to currents of air, or "drafts," is the chief cause of colds. If the human system is in good condition, it can easily withstand the breeze from open doors and windows, and thrive on it. In fact, that may not be believed by many who still hold to old-fashioned theories but it is supported by the declarations of health experts here and elsewhere.

A cold contact with germs of any shape, size or nationality. That is the advice which physicians in Marion and all other cities hand out. They declare that if this is done, epidemics of colds, grippes and flu will have little if any chance of getting a start.

Unlooked for circumstances frequently develop in the course of a man's life to change all of his plans and cause him to take up some occupation which he never dreamed of following.

That happened in the case of a young Marion man who has become an expert housekeeper as the result of his mother becoming ill and unable to look after her duties.

At first he expected to engage in the undertaking only temporarily. But his mother's affliction was prolonged and the son was required to continue managing the household.

At the outset he knew little or nothing about cooking and his meals were mostly of the fried egg and potato variety. As time passed, he mastered all intricacies of the culinary art and now is capable of holding his own in a cooking contest with any kitchen experts of the opposite sex.

He gives all of his time to his new and unusual duties. Not so new, now, because he has been at this class of work for several years and possibly may continue for the remainder of his life.

Neighbors say that he is exceptionally adept in all phases of domestic work and that no woman in Marion can surpass him in either planning or preparing a menu.

Should the time come when his services are no longer needed in his own home, it is said that he would probably fit admirably in a position as chef at some hotel, restaurant or club where patrons demand the best in the way of eatables.

A SHOPPING list that would make a professional buyer feel amateurish was found one Saturday afternoon recently by a clerk in a local store. From the heading of the list, the words, "When in town," heavily underscored, one would judge that the shopper was a rural citizen and that the infrequency of her visits to Marion made essential a long shopping list.

The list was long, numbering 24 items—if you care to include two that were crossed out, (the only two errands accomplished perhaps when the list was procuredly lost). One wonders what same shopper would do in the Christmas rush when shopping lists swell to three or four times their normal size.

The list reads as follows: Look for

QUART OF WATER A DAY HELPS KIDNEYS

When Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers, Also Take a Little Salts

Eating too much rich food may produce kidney trouble in some form, says a well-known authority, because the acids created excite the kidneys. Then they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region, rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, begin drinking lots of good water and also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity; also to neutralize the acids in the system so that they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts can not injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys and urinary organs clear, thus often avoiding serious kidney disorders.—Adv.

Save treated with DIPDUST 83 Sound—2 Decayed

Same seed treated with corrosive sublimate 4 Sound—21 Decayed

Which Seed Will Produce the Most Potatoes?

Compare the results of the new Instantaneous Dip—DIPDUST—with old-fashioned "two-hour soak" treatment. Above is a photograph of the farm of A. Schlecht, Freehold, N. J.

While vines were still green, 25 consecutive DIPDUST and corrosive sublimate treated hills were dug. Dipdust hills had 23 sound and only 1 decayed seed pieces. Corrosive sublimate hills had only 4 sound and 1 decayed seed pieces.

DIPDUST is much more effective in the old-fashioned ways of treating seed potatoes. Besides, you can get your seed potatoes as fast as you can scoop them up. Just dip in Dipdust solution and out in an hour your seed is all ready to plant. One man can easily treat from 100 to 400 bushels of potatoes per day.

There is not the slightest danger of injuring the sprouts or even cut ends. DIPDUST controls surface-borne diseases, such as Rhizoctonia, and black-leg, and protects cut surfaces from seed rotting organisms in the soil. It insures sturdy, healthy plants that will increase your yield from 15 to 25 bushels per acre.

After one trial of DIPDUST you will never again waste time with a "two-hour soak" treatment or spend two weeks worrying about your seed.

Read These Results of Actual Field Tests:

FRED BRUNNER, JR., Cranbury, N. J. "The DIPDUST potatoes came up very even with very few misses, whereas the undipped potatoes came up very uneven, and with many a miss. As many as 33 diseased plants (black-leg) were found to a single row, whereas the DIPDUST seed showed only 15 plants in a whole 14-acre patch of Prince Edward Island seed potatoes. The difference was so apparent at all times that dealers and growers visited the farm very frequently."

HARRY O. DICKEY, Elk River, Minn. "It was easy to see the difference between the treated and untreated parts of the field during the growing season (Early Ohio seed potatoes). The DIPDUST treated plants came up better and appeared healthier and sturdier than the untreated plants. At digging time, I compared the yields and found that the DIPDUST treated rows ran 165 bushels while the untreated rows gave me only 140 bushels per acre."

One pound treats 15 to 20 bushels of seed potatoes.

Treat your Corn and Vegetable Seeds too

You can now also disinfect your seed corn and vegetable seeds with DIPDUST and increase your yield by preventing many of the diseases which cause poor germination, weak, spindly plants, and a poor quality crop. Simply use as a dust treatment. It is easily and quickly applied and costs but a few cents per acre. One pound of DIPDUST will treat six bushels of seed corn, or from six to eight bushels of vegetable seed.

HOCKING AND PENNSY CARRY COAL NORTH

Erie Hauls Large Amount of Perishable Freight Eastward, Check Shows

North, south, east and west—it makes little which way you turn—practically every Marion railroad has some special commodity which forms its principal source of income on trains operated on their lines in certain directions.

Many times persons have watched long trains passing carrying practically only one certain type of freight. No doubt they have wondered where some of these trains obtain their loads. According to a check of local railroads it was revealed that the Hocking Valley and Pennsylvania trains carry mostly coal on northbound trip. This coal comes from southern Ohio and West Virginia.

The Erie does a heavy business on eastbound freight in perishable goods coming from the fruit growing districts in California and the packing houses in Chicago. Refrigerator cars make this possible. The Erie also carries considerable hard coal west from Pennsylvania fields.

Perishable goods is being shipped over the Big Four to Cleveland and points east. Usually this road carries a general line of freight.

It was revealed in the check that the average train is 80 cars long when loaded and 120 when empty.

FREMONT ADOPTS NEW GAS SCHEDULE

Action Taken by That City Announced Here by
M. A. Mickle

A new gas rate schedule has been adopted for the city of Fremont as the result of an agreement reached by the Logan Gas Co. and the Fremont city council, M. A. Mickle, local manager of the company, announced today.

The new schedule, as given in the ordinance passed by the Fremont council, is as follows:

One dollar for the first 500 feet of gas and 50 cents per thousand for all over 500 feet, for a two-year period; $1 for the first 500 feet and 60 cents per thousand for all over 500 feet, for the next three years; $1.50 for first 500 feet and 60 cents per thousand for all over 500, for five-year period.

These rates, in part, are similar to the schedule offered Marion about a year ago as a compromise settlement of the gas rate controversy here.

The present rate schedule in effect here, which is being collected under refund bond furnished by the company pending outcome of a protest on file with the state utilities commission, is as follows:

Ninety-five cents for the first 500 feet of gas each month; 45 cents per 1,000 for the next 4,500 feet; 50 cents per 1,000 for next 5,000 feet; 55 cents for next 5,000 and 60 cents per thousand for all over 15,000.

These are the net charges after deducting three cents per thousand feet for payment of bills before the tenth of the month.

The contested schedule here is practically the same as the one which has been in effect at Fremont and which is replaced by the new rates just adopted.

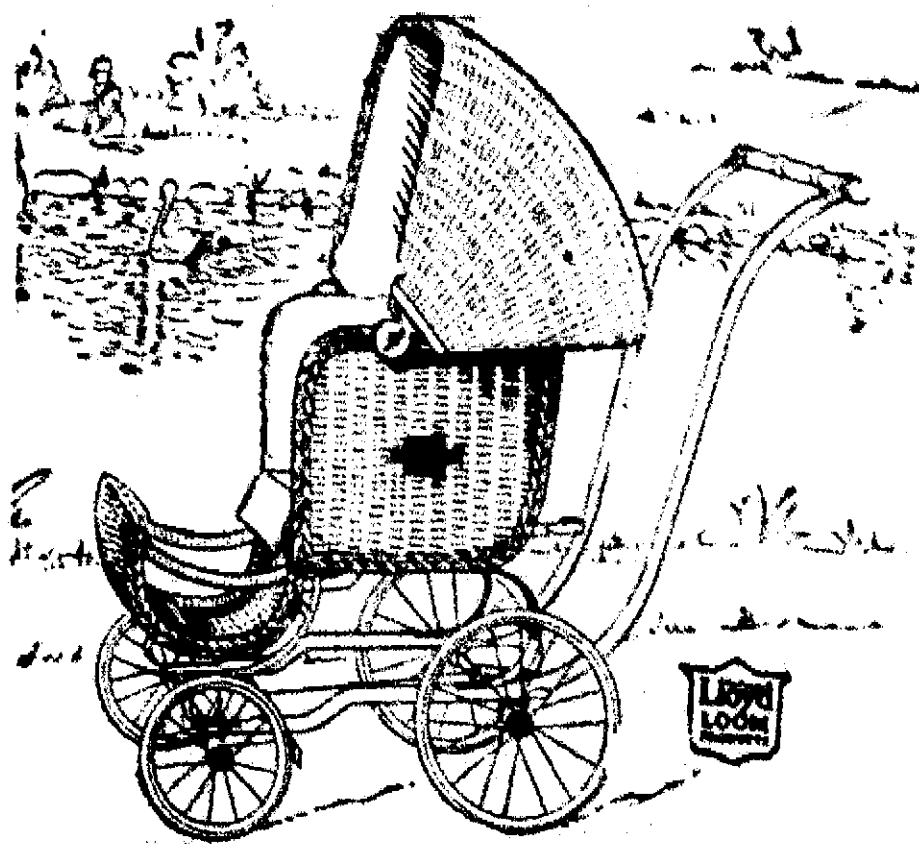

MARION MEN QUESTS OF PYTHIANS AT EDISON

H. H. O'Dowd of Canby Lodge No. 51, Knights of Pythias, and S. R. Heber of Marion Lodge No. 402 were among the guests last night at a "booster meeting" of Edison Lodge No. 454, held for the purpose of reviving interest in the organization, which has been inactive for almost a year.

Arrangements were made for a social to be held by the lodge on April 4. J. H. Kries of Cardington, Pythian deputy for Morrow County, was present and addressed the meeting.

With government assistance an experimental seaplane line has been established between Kharum and Kisumu, reducing by 10 days the time of travel between Great Britain and East Africa.

A social program is planned for next

No date has been set for merger of Wayside and Kosciuszko Lodges, which

SERIOUS FIRE AVERTED AT AUGENSTEIN RESIDENCE

A serious country fire was narrowly averted early last night when coal oil leaking from a tank on an oil cook store in the kitchen at the home of Leroy Augenstein, three miles south of the city on the Delaware-pk. caught fire.
Flames from the burning oil leaped up the walls setting fire to the wall paper. A call was sent into Central Fire Station. A few minutes later a second call was received announcing that the fire had been extinguished.
The loss was confined to the wall paper;
it was announced at the Augenstein home today.

Indorsement Given Post Plans at Regular Meeting of Marion Lodge

The American Legion's plans for a national junior baseball tournament this year were endorsed by Marion Lodge of Elks at its weekly meeting last night and the lodge arranged to sponsor one of the teams to be entered from Marion County.

The exalted ruler, Jay Vaughan, was authorized to name some member of the lodge to attend to organization of the team.

The tournament, which is to decide the national baseball championship for teams made up of boys from 12 to 17 years of age, will start with county contests and end in September with a junior world series.

It is expected that at least four teams will contest for the honor of representing Marion County. Bird-McGinnis Post of the American Legion is in charge of arrangements and plans to have each team sponsored by some local organization, as has been done by the Elks.

It was announced that next Thursday night, the last of the present lodge year, will be observed with initiation of a class of candidates, followed by a social session and lunch. Officers elected for the ensuing year are to be installed the following Thursday night.

Final arrangements were announced for a ladies' social, to be featured by

GUILD MEETS

Prospect Group Plans To Become Standard Chapter

Prospect, March 23—The World
Wide Guild Girls, of the Baptist Church, were pleasantly entertained by Esther Kimmel and Helen Cox at the home of Miss Kimmel.

The meeting opened by the singing of several Guild songs. The scripture lesson was read by Velma Almendinger, followed by sentence prayers. After the reading of the minutes, 19 responded to roll call.

Mildred Bumgarner had charge of the business session. A committee consisting of Mrs. Elwood Almendinger, Mrs. Charlie Kirby, Leona Hughes and Daisy Thomas was appointed to make plans for making the Guild a standard chapter this year.

The leaders of the evening, Mrs. T.
E. Drake and Helen Mounts, discussed the subject, "Race Prejudice Against the Negro." Leona Hughes, Mildred Bumgarner, Henrietta Hodges, Thelma Cratty and Elizabeth Beery gave a report of the state World Wide Guild convention which they attended at Youngstown. The meeting closed by repeating the Guild covenant.

During the social hour, dainty refreshments were served by the hostess.
Visitors present were Erna Louise
Drake and Miss Daisy Roberts.

Business College Downs Central Christians In Tourney

Sophomores Lose To Reformed Five

Second Games of Marion County Amateur Meet Held at Y. M. C. A.; Both Class A and B Contests Are Very Close

Marion Business College and First Reformed basketball teams stood head and shoulders above other aggregations entered in the second games of the Marion County Amateur Tournament at the Y. M. C. A. last night.

Combining great teamwork with accurate basket shooting, the Business College was able to defeat Central Christians, champions of the Marion County Sunday School League, 35 to 23.

The collegians led throughout the fray and were never outscored by their opponents. At the end of the first quarter the score was 7 to 4 and the lead increased to 14 to 7 at the end of the half. In the third quarter the Collegians led 24 to 12. Both teams scored 11 points in the final period.

Gibbons was the main cog in the Business College scoring machine with 21 points from five baskets and three fouls. Atkinson scored eight points.

Geisler, whose sensational playing gave the Christians the county Sunday School title, was high man for his team by scoring 10 points. Both teams are in the Class A division.

Harding High School Sophomores gave the First Reformed a good run for their money in the first half but weakened in the final period to lose 31 to 25.

Led by Ruhl and Nelson Klingel, the winners had no difficulty in overcoming the opposition after the first half. At the end of the first quarter First Reformed led 5 to 3. Harding took a one-point lead at the half when the score stood 9 to 8. First Reformed came back strong in the third period to make the score 24 to 15.

Tonight's schedule will find St. Mary's playing the Wildcats at 7 o'clock and at 8 o'clock the Vocationalists will play the Harding High-Y. Pleasant and Market and Lewis will clash at 9 o'clock.

WINS BUT ONE
New York, March 23—Allen Hall has won only one of the eight blocks played to date in his special 900-point three cushion billiard match with Willie Hoppe. As a result of 50 to 41 and 50 to 25 victories in the seventh and eighth blocks, Hoppe today leads his youthful rival by a score of 400 to 271.

MAKE GOOD RECORDS
Chicago, March 23—Tommy from Westfield, Mass., Sam Antonio, Tex., Cumberland, Md., Philadelphia, Pueblo, Colo., and Brooklyn, N. Y., had promising outlooks today in the fifth annual High School basketball tournament being staged at Loyola University. All of these youngsters were victorious in first round games last night. There were other victors, but their scores were not as impressive.

TWO STATES BEHIND C. G. PYLE'S RUNNERS

Cross Border Line into New Mexico with Leadership Unchanged

New Mexico State Line, March 23—Two states, California and Arizona, lay behind as C. G. (Cross-Country) Pyle's blistered barons pushed eastward, 23 miles, to Gallup, New Mexico, today.

At starting time the five leaders in the grid retained their relative positions, with the following elapsed times for the 680 miles from Los Angeles: Arne Souminen, Detroit, 118:30.00; Andrew Payne, Claremore, Okla., 121:37.47; John Cronick, Saskatchewan, Canada, 122:18.15; Peter Garuzzi, Southampton, England, 123:17.11; Voight Hofstadter, Muskegon, Mich., 123:25.45.

Leaving Gallup tomorrow morning, the Pyle caravan will mount the continental divide on the 32½ mile trek to Thornew, where camp will be made for the night. The highest elevation reached on the cross-country will be near Thornew, 7,465 feet.

Sunday, the runners and walkers will sweep down from the heights to Grants, 31.3 miles from Thornew. Monday's trek will be 34 miles to Old Laguna, with an additional 31.4 miles, making Rio Huerco the Tuesday night control. Albuquerque will be the objective of a 39 mile jaunt Wednesday.

WOODS and WATERS
by HOMER BOW

WILD (HOUSE) CATS
Several years ago an article appeared in Woods and Waters which was dedicated in favor of capital punishment for house cats which roam fields and woods or live in a wild state.

Immediately afterward a game protector came in with the word that there was a chap who was very indignant and who stated, in a very threatening manner, that he would like to catch someone taking a pot shot at one of his cats and would particularly enjoy in mortal combat with the guy who wrote that stuff, advocating death for self-sustaining felines.

However, if you care to take a walk out in the open at this time of year, it is mighty interesting to note tracks when here is enough snow in which to follow them. Mingled with numerous bunny tracks are those of cats. It is surprising the amount of ground they can cover in search of food.

Tabby evidently considers birds rather tasty, as they occur too often on the menu. Covies of quail, huddled together in the cold, are often easy marks for prowling cats.

The worst time, however, is in the spring of the year when birds are nesting. At that time the mother bird, on the nest, falls an easy prey to prowling pussy. When the young hatch, tabby also enthuses over them for a diet and as a result many birds are lost.

Not only ground dwelling birds suffer. The cat is adept at ascending trees. Any pugnacious dog will attest to that, as when he was just ready to close on a fleeing cat, it will flash up a tree to safety.

Young rabbits are helpless while in the nest and many are eaten by cats every year.

In face of this it seems that execution is not at all out of place. Of course, there are instances where cats do not bother wild life but when one is roaming a field, it is a safe bet that it is out for more than a constitutional hike.

Kentucky Derby Entries Get Heavy Play in Books

New York, March 23—The boys who like their shots long and usually find their money short are giving the winter books on the Kentucky Derby a gallant play again and this time most of their money is going down on Reigh County, the horse that figured so prominently in the Earl Sande incident. So much dinero has been tossed into the pot on the Count's chances that one of the best of the winter books has rated him at 4 to 1, a comical price with the race more than two months distant.

The winter books, as everyone knows, or should know, are operated on what is termed a "pay or play" basis. It should be called pay or lose, for if your horse doesn't start you lose immediately. It is conceded that this usually beats the bad news only by a matter of two minutes and five seconds whether he starts or not but that merely serves to emphasize the fact that future book gambling is not for gentlemen with hewed tendons.

No Outstanding Entry
This year the business is even more precarious, since there isn't a real stand out in the field, regardless of Reigh County's price. A well informed track man says that the chances are 15 to 1 that the Count won't even start, so the boys that are betting 6 to 1 and 4 to 1 that he will win a race that won't start for two months are playing against all percentages.

The Derby, in fact, looks the part of the most open race of recent years. There is no Bubbling Over, no Zer, in this field. Just a lot of fair horses in the record entry of 1926 three-year-olds. This, of course, may be all for the best. Zev was such a good thing four or five years ago that nearly everybody took a flier on him in the winter books and, when time for the pay off came, there wasn't any or, at least, there wasn't enough to discharge obligations.

In a field such as this, however, the play will be so distributed that the book can pay off on almost any winner, without distress. It may be assumed, in fact, that the short price on Reigh County was established because the pricemaker had decided he held enough money on the horse and wanted to discharge obligations.

MAY BE CHAMPION

Can you see the future heavyweight champion of the world in this picture? Well, it is Tom Heeney, Australian contender for Tunney's crown. Tom is sailing on pleasure trip abroad.

Champ Will Fight Sometime In July

Tom Heeney and Johnny Risko Seem To Be Logical Contenders for Crown; Jack Sharkey Not Being Given Much Consideration

By DAVIS J. WALSH
New York, March 23—Through devious channels, which represents par in the Isaac Pitman system of saying that somebody has told more than he cares to be credited with, comes the word from Miami today that George Rickard and brother Tunney have reached an "understanding." If they are referring to the heavyweight situation, this makes them exactly one up on the rest of us but, anyhow, the word is that Tunney will defend his title no later than July, that his opponent either will be Tom Heeney or Johnny Risko and that the site of the transaction will be New York.

Heeney, it seems, is the preferred candidate at the moment and it is to be assumed that, if the championship were to be fought for tomorrow, he is the man who would be in there taking uncalculated liberties with brother Tunney's knuckles. The latter usually are most discriminating but this is not the time for financial priorities. Shrink though they may from this contact, an underserving chin simply must strike them very rudely before the end of the summer.

No Opponent Yet
Apparently for lack of more adequate data, it has been decided that the time might as well be July and the chin might as well be Heeney's. However, I understand that neither George nor brother Tunney is definitely committed to any opponent. They simply have agreed that Heeney is a superior attraction over Risko, provided this party doesn't have at it in the meantime, which probably it will. Incidentally, it is brother Tunney's thought that

July will furnish the ideal date, it being his quite logical contention that, if his opponent is unavailable by then, it is the opponent, will be equally "non est" in September and probably more so.

Brother Tunney, if need be, could cite the melancholy case of Jack Sharkey, the ex-orator, as proving that one can afford to give a heavyweight contender almost anything, except too much time.

Six months ago, our Mr. Sharkey was the bellwether among heavyweights, the lad who need only remove his attention from himself long enough to sign on the dimpled line for a title fight. Just for the sake of making a little character, however, it was deemed advisable to send him along with Heeney for a "breather." After it was over, they all got around and hoped he choked.

Eliminated Sharkey
Then they rallied gamely and rushed into the light of day with the Sharkey-Risko fight if any. The result of this elimination contest served to eliminate Sharkey everywhere except in the open meetings of the Daniel Webster school of debate and in the opinion of the New York State Athletic Commission.

He apparently went right to the head of the class, as far as that body is concerned, and I suggest that his next step be taken with the idea of confirming the report that Joe Beckett is a member of England's standing army. But, anyhow, I think brother Tunney is right, as usual. Let's not give these worthy contender too much time or the first thing you know George Rickard himself will have to go in there against brother Tunney.

Infield And Outfield Form Problems For Peckinpaugh

Cleveland Indians Miss Old Manager

Having Hard Time in Replacing Tris Speaker in Both Positions: Hurling and Catching Staffs Considered Plenty Strong This Year

Editor's Note: This is the sixth and last of a series of articles by the International News Service dealing with developments in the Cleveland Indians' spring training.

CLEVELAND, March 23—Midway between the 1926 and 1927 seasons, the Cleveland Indians, having lost the pennant before on the final day, were deprived of a great manager and a successful manager. The loss couldn't have come in any other way because the manager and centerfielder happened to be the same man, Tris Speaker.

There is no difference that he is no longer a great outfielder and it may be that he is no longer a great manager. The point is that the Indians are in a position to produce a man in either position, as they were in 1927, and the replacement of Speaker in these two positions today is one of the Indians' severest problems as they approach the end of the spring season.

Peckinpaugh, hardly a veteran of the campaign, has come forward as the 1928 managerial hope. He has had to his experience and judgment has been supplemented by Billy Evans, former manager of the Indians, who should furnish the Indians with the drive and inspiration that featured Speaker's leadership. But the furnishing of a centerfielder is something else again.

Three Out For Center
There are three young outfielders in the Indians' camp who give some indication that the Indians may have a replacement in centerfield. This year was the case in 1927, when they were named in the order of their seniority: Ed Morgan, George Gill, and George Gill, up from Shreveport.

Morgan is the favorite with Peckinpaugh because of his hitting. He stood up around 360 with the Indians last year and qualified observers believe that he will hit any time and anywhere. He, however, has displayed some marked outfielding faults, especially on balls hit over his head. He probably is a more finished man in defense but he lacks Morgan's punch and besides, he is regarded at Cleveland last year. Gill is regarded by some of the players as the best all-around man of the three but they consider that he will have to swing a club to take the job away from Morgan. The latter is likely to start a season in centerfield, in spite of his hitting troubles.

He will be flanked in left by a real veteran, Charley Jamieson, and by an up-and-coming man in right, Homer Summa. These are two of the real stable positions.

CUYLER WILL HELP CUBS THIS SEASON

John McGraw Believes Chicago Team Received Best End of Deal

Tampa, Fla., March 23—You might if you were a smart fella and knew how to present your arguments in a very snappy fashion, persuade Donie Rush to concur in the current notion that Joe McCarthy obtained a well merited cold-deck in the Hazen Cuyler affair. In fact, the returns to date rather clearly indicate that only about two baseball men disagree with this version, the other one being either McCarthy or Hazen Cuyler, which, however, has nothing to do with the fact that the first and original dissembler is John J. McGraw.

Our John thinks the Chicago Cubs improved their hand on the deal and says so much more bluntly and in a loud, firm voice. However, it is John's idea that the Cubs didn't part with a great plenty in "Sparky" Adams and Floyd Scott and that they obtained in Cuyler a man who potentially is one of the great outfielders of all baseball.

Cubs Improved
"The Cubs should be a better ball club than in 1927 and they were good enough then to lead the race almost into its final weeks," is the way John sees it. "Those pitchers of theirs will be more effective for another year on the circuit. Then, in Johnny Butler, they will have a better man on third base than they had at any time last season. At shortstop, they will have young English playing his first full season in the major leagues and it is my opinion that he will do. English was nervous and shaky when he first broke in but he came along splendidly toward the end of the campaign."

"No, I can't see where the Cubs won't be a stronger, more menacing factor in 1928."

"How about second base? Well, they won't go far wrong with Freddy Maguire. I should know, for I had him around for a couple of seasons. He may not hit too much but he will field with the best of them and the rest of the club, with the addition of Cuyler, may have sufficient punch to carry a player of this type."

The Cuyler business, according to McGraw's version, may be summed up in this manner:
The Cubs gave a quit claim on Scott, a second class outfielder, and Adams, who is "just a ball player," as John sees him. In return, they took title to a gent who might make them the surprise club of the league.

"Everything depends on Cuyler," he declares. "I have seen that fellow when he looked like one of the great players of all time. I also have seen him when he looked like the worst on the lot. If he wants to play ball the way he can, the Cubs will find that they made an excellent deal. The chances are that he will feel that way after a half season on the bench in Pittsburgh. Besides that, Joe McCarthy is a great man for getting the best out of his players. I think he will be able to handle Cuyler all right and that results will justify his side of the trade."

Dorval Ruined by Jack Kearns' System

BY FRANK G. MENKE

If Jack ("Napoleon") Dorval never does any noticeable arriving in the mug-dug-out sweepstakes, he probably can point an accusing set of digits at Jack Kearns and his...

"You're the anchor."

The career of Dorval unfolds the rather strange story of how Kearns after first failing to do anything for a likely looking heavyweight, "reassigned" him to someone else and then, when Dorval was stepping bristly and brilliantly, Kearns took him back only to put the hobbles on once again.

Dorval was a life guard down Long Branch, N. J., way—with a fondness for justifying. Given a chance to strut his stuff he promptly ruined the complexion of his foe in such a way that a newspaper man hurried to Pope Dallas, who manages warblers as a post-time around New York, and exclaimed:

"I've just seen a phenom; the fastest big man that ever drew on a mitt. Go grab him, manage him—and you'll have a world champion."

Starts Dorval on Way

So Pope grabbed Dorval, "tuned up" Dorval and turned him loose on a hustling campaign. But luck went against Dorval for a while. He broke one hand and when that was patched up by Dr. Wilfred G. Fralick, who has saved 1,000,914 battles from senile decay and the pugilistic scrap heap—well, Dorval broke another. The good old Doc salvaged that mangle and Napoleon again was ready for the wars.

Along about this time Kearns stepped into the picture. He had seen Dorval in action, gasped over his speed, pronounced him a potential champion and then spoke like this to Dallas:

"Let me manage him. I've got connections. I'll put him across where nobody else can."

"Sure," agreed Pope Dallas. "I'm not aiming to make money out of this kid. I like him and want him to get his chance. I guess you can do it."

So Kearns became manager of Dorval. And the first thing he did was to try to make a weaving, ducking, bobbing slugger out of him.

"I'll make another Dempsey of this fellow," boasted Kearns.

Falls To Change Style

But he didn't. Instead he merely made a punching bag out of Dorval. The big youngster, trying to fight in the way that Kearns demanded, was under a terrible handicap. The stance was awkward for him and this superb boxer became a "bust" trying to be "another Dempsey."

And then Dorval contracted a "crick in the back." This, together with Dorval's poor showing under his management, decided Kearns that Dorval was twelve kinds of a false alarm. Dorval became discouraged, realizing Kearns' lack of faith in him and as there came a day when the kid walked out of New York and headed for 327 miles to his home town, Pompano, Fla., because he was minus the cash for railroad fare.

"I'm through fighting," he vowed as he took a job with a road section gang—and quite readily did Kearns let "that big hoodlum" drift out of his life.

One day Harry Lewis, a light mantager around New York, met Pope Dallas and when conversation shifted from one battler to another, Lewis asked:

"What's become of Dorval?" Dallas told him.

"Great prospect, that kid. Let's get him back and make another try with him at this fight racket." Pope Dallas was the most agreeable and Dorval was coaxed back to New York.

"You've got the manager's contract with Dorval," Lewis said to Kearns. "Yes, and it's worth $15,000 to me," replied Kearns. "That's what it cost me to buy him."

"Are you planning to make any further tries with him?"

"No, he can't make the grade," answered Kearns. "That's $15,000 I blew on that bird."

"Tell you what I'll do," declared Lewis. "I'll take over Dorval and agree to pay you back your $15,000 by paying you 25 per cent of all Dorval's earnings."

Kearns quickly accepted—but only in a verbal way. No written document was signed; it was "a gentleman's agreement."

Lenny put Dorval back in training.

"Box in your natural way," were Lenny's only instructions.

And then Lenny watched Dorval with Lenny Touchstone who just then was a sensation among the youthful heavies in New York. Gamblers laid as high as 4 to 1 that Touchstone would win. Whereupon, Dorval, permitted at last to fight in his own way, annihilated Touchstone and took rank as the greatest of the great youngsters.

The next battler over Dorval performed by newspaper men impressed by his skill, extended to the Pacific Slope. Kearns heard it, heard that balance, heading, lincey and barkey, had been ducking matches with Dorval.

So Kearns raced from California to New York and then—well, Kearns back Dorval away from Lenny, pointing out that he was the legitimate manager. After that he hustled Dorval to the coast, informing the world he'd develop Dorval into a wonder of wonders out there.

MAY WIN MALARIA FIGHT WITH FISH

Lowly North Carolina Minnow Sent Around World for Good Health

Raleigh, N. C., March 22—Scarcely noticed in this era of good will tours of divers kind, a lowly North Carolina minnow—the same kind anglers used for bait—has been sent around the world as a contribution toward universal good health.

The particular service of this species of the top minnow, gambusia affinis, distributed from the semi-tropical swamps of North Carolina as a boon to public welfare, is in the destruction of the malaria-spreading mosquito.

The gambusia is native to that territory east of the Rockies from Maryland and Southern Indiana and Illinois, southward, but it is from North Carolina that the stock has gone, in an attempt to eradicate the malaria menace throughout the world.

To Many Countries

Dr. S. F. Hildebrand, ichthyologist of the U. S. Bureau of Fisheries at Beaufort, N. C., is a recognized authority on the tiny creature and has spent many years in the study of the life habits and service of the minnow as a public health agency. During the war, he was given a special assignment of making a study of mosquito control around Army cantonments.

Shipments of the gambusia have been made from the Edenton U. S. Bureau of Fisheries by V. E. Baker, superintendent and the Frank Stodman fish hatchery of the State Department of Conservation and Development, into a number of countries.

Two of the shipments were made to Italy and Spain, the one to the latter country being successful and the one to the former, a failure. However, the Spanish consignment planted in a pond near Madrid, multiplied rapidly, and Italy then obtained a brood stock from Spain.

Battle Mosquitoes

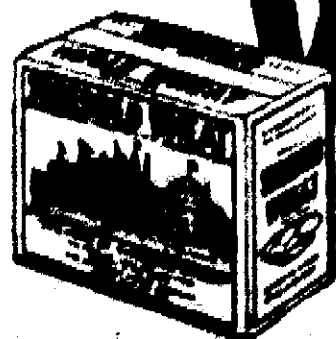

According to recent reports received by the State Department of Conservation and Development, the fish has been introduced from Spain and Italy into nearly all of the Southern European countries as successful combatants of mosquitoes.

"The fish appear to be multiplying extremely fast in Southern Europe, and the degree of mosquito control appears to be even better than we generally expected in the United States," Dr. Hildebrand said.

An Italian writer has said: "We have now to thank America for the precious gift, the value of which we no longer doubt."

A consignment of gambusia was sent to the Hawaiian Islands, where it proved an excellent success. Later a small lot was taken to the Philippine Islands from where the fish is said to have found its way into Southern China and Japan.

STUDENTS TO HELP MUSIC SUPERVISOR

Howard M. Temple Selects Corps of Assistants To Carry Out Program

With several special musical entertainments scheduled as well as a number of playing engagements, the music department of the Marion Public Schools has an unusually large amount of work on hand from now until the close of the school year. Howard M. Temple, music supervisor, has selected certain apt students to assist him with the work, serving as leaders at the various entertainments at which school music organizations will appear.

Friday night, the Harding High School Orchestra will play a group of special numbers under leadership of Miss Anna Von Endt at a service at Salem Evangelical Church. On the same night a special group from the orchestra, directed by William Guthrie and Bernita LeMasters, will present a short program at the debate between Harding and Galien High Schools at Central Junior High School auditorium.

Other school musical events scheduled include the program to be given by the Central Junior High School Glee Club at the State Street Community Club meeting at State Street School Tuesday, March 27, the concert to be given by the Oak Street School Orchestra, directed by Robert Kelly, Harding High School student, at an Oak Street Community Club meeting this month and the program to be given by the Harding High School Band at a meeting of the same society in April.

Selection of parts for the cantata, "Rip Van Winkle," to be given by musical departments of the city schools in the near future, will be made during the week of March 26. The first rehearsal of the chorus of 350 children to appear in the cantata will be held Monday, April 2. Rehearsals of the Little Symphony Orchestra of grade school children are being held from 3:30 to 5 o'clock every Friday afternoon at Central Junior High School.

FREED FROM THE MEDICINE HABIT

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN
brought welcome relief

Sufferers from constipation will be interested in Mrs. Van Horn's letter below. She wrote us, voluntarily, to express her appreciation for the wonderful results ALL-BRAN brought.

June 17, 1927
"I feel as if I must write you a few lines to let you know what a wonder food your ALL-BRAN is and what it has done for me and how others I have told about it. I have been using it for one year and have a movement every morning. Before, I was taking medicine every three or four days. Now, I never take any. Many thanks to ALL-BRAN. I can't praise it too much."

Sincerely,
Mrs. G. W. Van Horn,
2125 S. 4th St., Ft. Collins
Don't let constipation sap your health and strength. Headaches, dizziness, blotched complexion are only a few of the evils it causes. It is responsible for more than forty serious diseases.

Guard against it—now, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to bring relief. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal. ALL-BRAN is a ready-to-eat cereal—100% bran. Delicious and healthful with milk or cream, or with fruit or honey added. Recipes on package. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Higher in food value

due to richer ingredients

Doesn't it stand to reason that a margarine made of rich, nutritious meat products must be higher in food value than those made of cheaper vegetable oils? Mothers seem to think so, at least, for more American children are being raised on GOOD LUCK than on any other margarine. Follow their example and give your children this nourishing margarine.

MARSHALL M'KINSTRY HOME AND BARN BURN

$5,000 Building Loss Covered by Insurance; Contents Not Insured

Seven hours after their home with practically all of the contents, had been swept away by flames, fire started in the barn at the home of Roy Brown, and the Marshall McKinstry farm, three and one-half miles west of the city on the Harding Highway last night, destroying the structure together with 27 tons of baled hay belonging to Mrs. Thatcher, a neighbor. The loss on the buildings is estimated at $5,000, covered by insurance. There was no insurance either on the hay or the household goods, however.

Sparks that lodged among the bales of hay during the fire in the morning, were believed to have been responsible for the blaze that destroyed the barn at night. Settling in the tightly baled hay, it is thought they smoldered until ignited by a draft from some cause or another, they burst into flame.

Only Mrs. Brown and the children were at home yesterday morning when the fire was discovered in the home, the husband being employed at Marion Steam Shovel plant. When discovered by a motorist passing on the highway, the entire roof was ablaze and it was with difficulty that the motorist was attracted by the blaze to a few pieces of furniture before the entire building was ablaze.

A call was sent in to Central Fire Station, but because of the ruling on answering country calls, the firemen did not respond. Fighting valiantly with a bucket brigade, the volunteers were able to keep the flames from spreading to the barn and other buildings. A wind carrying the burning embers toward the barn greatly increased the danger.

The fire which is thought to have started from a defective chimney or from sparks on a single roof, completely destroyed the house although the other buildings were saved.

Shortly after 6 o'clock last night, while members of the family were looking through the ruins of the house, the barn suddenly burst into flames. Attracted by the blaze, motorists and a number of neighbors formed a bucket brigade. Their effort was futile, however, and the barn was burned to the ground. The 27 tons of baled hay had been stored in the barn by a neighbor.

Sparks that lodged among the bales of hay during the fire in the morning, were believed to have been responsible for the blaze that destroyed the barn at night. Columbus, March 23—"Drinking or immorality" of employees of the city of Columbus will be cause for dismissal, according to an order posted here today by the safety and service departments. Cincinnati, March 23—The New York American All-America tour airplane was delayed in its hop-off this morning from Lunken Field by a heavy fog. NO LOVE AFFAIR
Oxford, March 23—Friends of Raymond Tish, 19-year-old Miami University student of Coshocton, who committed suicide Wednesday by drinking poison in a hotel at Cincinnati, today discredited the theory that the motive for his act could be found in a love affair. MEMPHIS BEING FLOODED WITH VISITING GANGSTERS

Memphis, Tenn.—Deportation of visiting gangsters by police continues in Memphis with much vigor.

Several northern gangsters, from St. Louis, Chicago, Detroit and New York, have been taken into custody in the police clean-up drive here, taken to the state line and given an "official send-off."

"They will not come back," once they go through one of our departing ceremonies," say police officials.

Memphis is flooded with visiting gangsters, say officials.

PLATTE VALLEY PEOPLE MUST PURCHASE RAILROAD

Cheyenne, Wyo.—The Saratoga and Encampment Railroad will be dismantled, beginning May 1, 1928, unless the taxpayers of the Platte Valley in southeastern Wyoming, whom the railroad serves, can raise $100,000 by assessment before April 1.

The railroad is under court order to discontinue operation on May 1. As this is the only means of transportation for the inhabitants of this valley here, it is important to them that the road continues traffic. The Union Pacific, which the smaller road connects, has offered to operate the road perpetually, if the people whom they will serve consent to purchase the property and turn it over to them.

Because of the small size of the company that operated the road before, expenses were high, consequently freight rates were dear. If the line stays open, trucking facilities will come at a higher rate than did the previous freight service. The cost is estimated at approximately $120 per capita.

A young man may know more than his father, but he doesn't know as much as his father knows—that the much sentiment doesn't pay. One's years impart that.

Say pleasant thing about people. At least 8 per cent. under the law of averages, ought to be carried to them.
